Where did you first learn of the District's request for the Bond Issue and Operational Levy?

Where did you seek information about the Bond Issue and Operational Levy?

The District last completed a facilities master plan in 2016. At that time, stakeholders indicated that primary building enrollment should remain at approximately 500 students.

While gathering input from the community for the current facilities master plan (2023), stakeholders indicated they did not want to add a fourth primary building because it would require students to be redistricted.

Thus, this bond issue called for additional classrooms to be built at Waterville and Whitehouse Primary to accommodate increasing enrollment at those schools.

SURVEY QUESTION

The District placed an operational levy on the November ballot to fund the day-to-day instructional and operational costs, along with initiatives such as all day, every day kindergarten. Voters rejected this new funding. Please provide your thoughts on the operational levy below.*

With both the Bond Issue and Operational Levy, the District was asking for too much money at once.

There is a lack of financial transparency.

Lack of communication about what would happen if the levy did not pass.

I voted for / against the levy.

The timing was not right with other issues on the ballot.

There is not enough support for all day, every day kindergarten.

The District is overspending.

SURVEY QUESTION

The District placed a bond issue on the November ballot to fund projects related to facilities maintenance, improvements and expansions. Voters rejected this bond funding. Please provide your thoughts on the bond issue below.*

The levy amount was too big, and was for too long of a time period

I voted no because there were too many athletic improvements versus educational improvements

I voted in support of the renovations and facility improvements.

The District needs to be more financially transparent.

With both the Bond Issue and Operational Levy, the District was asking for too much money at once.
